

Too Much

from Glitterrrz!

online:

<https://www.allthetests.com/fan-fiction/poems/quiz38/159451275>

powered by www.allthetests.com

Introduction

Well. This is a poem, so don't read if you don't like poetry! I don't know what to write in this description and I don't particularly care anyway. Introducing a poem by Glitterrrz!

Too Much. ("All these memories of tears/I always push them back...")

Chapter 1

All these thoughts swirl around me
All these fragmented shards of hopes and fears
All these memories of tears
I always push them back
Get my mind on a different track
I don't know why this happens again and again
I thought of when things were a little different

But I know there's something I forgot
I miss you too much
I don't know why but I'm done
I don't know how

All these broken shards
Of thoughts
Fragmented dreams and worries
And things I'd rather forget
I bet you don't know
I thought about things when they were different
I don't know why but this happens again and again
A little bit

But I know I forgot a thing
I miss you too much
I don't know how but I'm done
I don't know why

All these shards are too much
All these memories
All these hopes and dreams
And fears and worries
And all these memories of tears
These thoughts whirl around
They surround
They are too much for me alone
These are too much for me alone