

How to come out as a furry.

from Becca Flamestar

online:

<https://www.allthetests.com/fan-fiction/advices/quiz38/16016629>

powered by www.allthetests.com

Introduction

Here is how to 'come out' as a furry. I know it's in the FanFiction style, but it is not FanFiction!
Becca??

Chapter 1

Technique 1: Making it obvious.

You can come out without literally saying "I am a furry". You can draw furry art, wear cat paws, leave furry sites open accidentally-on-purpose. This is how I did it. Wait for someone to ask if you are a furry. When they do, say yes, and now you are out of closet! I like to draw furry art a LOT. I never said the word "fursona", however I have one character I always draw, that has a name and a personality. I own some cat paws I wear in a daily basis. I watch Sonic the Hedgehog and Zootopia so much. How could I not be a furry!

Technique 2: Use the word.

Use the word "furry", but don't say you are one. "Hey, want to see my FURRY art?" "Here's my FURSONA." "That FURSUIT is so cute!" Make a good image for furries so that people (particularly parents) know furries as fans of anthro characters, not the stereotypical furries. Then, when you say you are a furry, they will be more accepting!

Technique 3: Just say it.

Turn on furry YouTube on phone. Take a deep breath. "Mom, I think I'm a furry." "What does that mean?" "These people." (Shows video) "They are fans of animals with human characteristics. They have conventions, and they make their own anthro characters, called fursonas." Describe the bare minimum of what a furry is. Now they know, and they don't know the stereotypes.

I hope this helps you come out,
Becca??