Introduction

A poem about my past self.

Chapter 1

I miss you

The way you smiled

and laughed as you walked down the hall

You didn't care what anybody thought

No, you didn't give a damn at all.

I miss you

The way you walked and even that voice of yours

Yes, I miss the way you talked

I miss you

singing along to your favorite song without feeling insecure

looking in the mirror and liking what you see

I miss you

that skinny little girl who sometimes cried and yelled but still, you kept a smile

I miss you would you please come back?

because I'm tired and distressed

I want back that smile and the reflection I took pride in

Why did you leave?
