

Off my chest

from Monkey

online:

<https://www.allthetests.com/fan-fiction/my-life/quiz39/16309826>

powered by www.allthetests.com

Introduction

I'm going to get things off my chest about my crush and so tell me in the comments what to do and what to write next

Chapter 1

So... This is for my crush whenever he comes over to my house again (we're close friends) so this is what happened.

We met in kindergarten, in the funniest way. We were on the swings next to each other, and he just asked me, hey, do you wanna be friends? Ever since that, we would play together for recess every single day, and then third grade happened. By that time I grew a big crush on him, and turns out, he was in a different class than me. He started just hanging out with boys and I was like, what the heck is up with him? Then in fourth grade, he continued to play with boys, even though we were in the same class. One day, we were in a relationship, so woot woot! The day before the last day of fourth grade was the saddest part. He told me he was going to a different school. I was so sad, and I ended up crying after school. We said our goodbyes the next day, and I have seen him once after that .just once.

So let me confess...

I really wished he would have stayed, and I really loved him. I miss him so so much!